For Immediate Release

SAVING CREDITORS FROM PENALTIES ASSOCIATED WITH NEW FACTA REGULATION

Altius IT and Merhab Robinson & Jackson are working together to make sure clients are compliant with FACTA before looming November 1st deadline.

Santa Ana, CA – Altius IT and Merhab Robinson & Jackson are working together to help creditors become compliant with FACTA before November 1st deadline.

FACTA (Fair and Accurate Credit Transactions Act) is a new regulation that requires creditors (firms with covered accounts such as credit card accounts, mortgage loans, automobile loans, margin accounts, cell phone accounts, utility accounts, checking accounts, and savings accounts) to develop and implement a written Identity Theft Prevention Program to detect, prevent, and mitigate identity theft. The deadline for compliance is November 1.

“Very few creditors are aware of this new regulation and may face stiff fines after the November 1, 2008 deadline. Our goal is to make sure that creditors understand FACTA requirements and are compliant before they incur penalties. In working with Merhab Robinson & Jackson, we can ensure that creditors are compliant with FACTA both from a risk/identity theft side and from a legal side. Creditors know they can have a real solution in place before the November 1 deadline,” says a former president of Altius IT.

Altius IT, a leader in identity theft and regulation compliance solutions, and Merhab Robinson & Jackson, a general business law firm, are working together to provide creditors with a comprehensive solution for FACTA compliance before November 1.

“Our firm established a relationship with Altius IT, an expert in the FACTA area, so we may direct our clients to an experienced source for assistance in developing an Identity Theft Prevention Program,” says Jennifer McClain, an attorney at Merhab Robinson & Jackson.

How to Comply with FACTA Contact Altius IT at www.AltiusIT.com to conduct a risk assessment and for assistance in drafting an Identity Theft Prevention Program. Altius IT will provide a free consultation and a flat rate estimate of the project based on the size of your company and what information your company already has in place.